

A man in a black t-shirt and sunglasses is holding a large rainbow flag. The background is a dark blue ceiling with metal beams. The overall scene is vibrant and celebratory.

Image

Parties

Gay World News

Dating...

Buckleback Chronicles By

D.L Romar

Too gay...

Music

scene kids

Personal Grooming

UGLAB

THE FIRST MAGAZINE OF IT'S KIND

Contents

DISCLAIMER

This magazine contains entries of an adult nature and has a gay theme. If you are not an adult (18 YEARS OF AGE OR OLDER) or if the laws in your country prohibit the viewing of adult or gay orientated material, or if you are offended by any matter concerning or pertaining to the gay lifestyle, then please don't read you can search for something more suited to your liking.

Furthermore....

I make NO claims as to the sexual orientation of any person pictured in this magazine, nor do I claim ownership of all the pictures posted in this magazine. If any pics posted here contravene any copyright laws or regulations then please notify me and I will remove them immediately upon proof of ownership or copyright infringement.

Concerning my lifestyle and preferences....

You have the right to remain silent. Should you choose to give up that right then anything that you say may be totally ignored.

Table of Contents

Editors Note

Parties

Gay World News

Dating...

Buckleback Chronicles By D.L Romar

Too gay...

Music

scene kids

Personal Grooming

UGLAB

Editors Note

Hi guys,

Has anyone notice it is so hard to find a straight guy in Barbados. Has anyone seen the fact that every ones ass is at the door. Everyone get on tight thigh blood sucking pants. Bright colors and ass out boxers. NOW I'm NOT complaining. I just miss when I could say well he is clearly gay or HEY that is a girl not a young boy. Things have changed so much then even the gay now sit in awe of the straight man walking around looking so butch with all their ass out and shirt so tight that you can see the nipple rings. Amazing how things have changed. ENOUGH ALREADY! I want my man to have baggy jean, a t-shirt and no style. I want to dress him not him take my clothes are my sisters of that fact. Happy reading!

Claudia Luv2Luv presents

IT'S ALIVE.

a halloween party at the Casa Grande hotel oct 31st $55 DRINKS FREE...

You ask for it no pool side come in your costumes and experience the maze of HORROR and we partying in the tower of DEATH...

shh i see dead ppl.
dont br affraid cum on in.

Dating .....

Whether it's your first, second date or even hundredth date, chances you are still feeling a little uncomfortable of how you should act your best behaviors. Dating is already a high voltage pressure situation and stressing out the etiquette will make it even worse, but don't feel so. I have several tips to ease out the stress and impress your date successfully.

Never talk with your food in your mouth

Nothing is uglier than talking with a mouthful of partially chewed meat, half beaten vegetables, peas, or smashed potatoes. It's gross and unsexiest thing to imagine. It's a real turn OFF. Always finish chewing and swallowing before responding.

Don't drink too much

You will lose you "cool" over third or more glasses and ruin your perfect evening. There are too many reasons why you shall not drink on your first date. Choose something lighter, instead of alcohol -- a cup of coffee after meal will be fine and most importantly you won't lost yourself silly.

No your Ex-es story, please

None likes to hear your whining about your ex-es. No matter how bad he treated you. Never dig it up. You are here to begin a new life with him, so don't make him your personal shrink!

Say at least one nice thing to your date

Oke. You don't have the chemistry, whether you are planning to ensure a second date or not , always give your date at least one nice sincere compliment during the evening. It's simply rude not saying so.

Never press for intimacy

You may feel he's hot and you can't stand to steal a kiss, but never push the issue. If he's feel uncomfortable or reluctant, please respect him.

Bring enough money

Nothing can be more embarrassing than not having enough money to pay your tab. Always bring some cash as well, in case something goes wrong with your credit cards

Don't be rude or too critical

If you can't say something nice, don't say it. Dating is already hard enough without having a date who keeps telling you what is wrong or right all the time.

Pay attention to him

Nothing ruin the interest faster than your roving eyes or a failure to pay attention when he's speaking. Give your boy the complete attention he deserves.

Financial issue - a simply no no

Never bring it out. It's very awkward if someone ask me how much I earn a year on my first date. And what is the point if you are asking how much my car cost?
Wanna show off ? You'd better get lost.

Be your self

Don't show off and trying to impress your date with fabulous story of how much money you've made. Be honest of who you are. If he's interested in you -- your money will be his second thought.

No phone call, please

Simply it turn off not vibate or slient. Unless your house is on fire, don't take a phone call or make a phone call.

Don't be late

The worst way to start your date. Always be there earlier at least half an hour -- if you are running behind, give him a call is the act of simple courtesy. Don't make him wait

AussieBum

Make no promise

If you are out with a date from hell and ending the evening is awkward, don't make promise to call. Simply wish him a pleasant evening and head home. If he ask you directly, be honest but not rude.

Gay World News

Malcolm X was bisexual. Get over it

October is Black History Month in Britain – a wonderful celebration of the huge, important and valuable contribution that black people have made to humanity and to popular culture.

It is also worth celebrating that many leading black icons have been lesbian, gay, bisexual or transgender (LGBT), most notably the US black liberation hero Malcolm X. Other prominent black LGBTs include jazz singer Billie Holiday, author and civil rights activist James Baldwin, soul singer-songwriter Luther Vandross, blues singer Bessie Smith, poet and short story writer Langston Hughes, singer Johnny Mathis, novelist Alice Walker, civil rights activist and organiser of the 1963 March on Washington Bayard Rustin, blues singer Ma Rainey, dancer and choreographer Alvin Ailey, actress, singer and dancer Josephine Baker, Olympic diving gold medallist Greg Louganis, singer and songwriter Little Richard, political activist and philosopher Angela Davis, singer-songwriter Tracy Chapman and drag performer and singer RuPaul.

Few of these prominent black LGBT achievers are listed on the most comprehensive UK Black History Month website, which hosts biographies of notable black men and women. In the section on people, only Davis is mentioned and her lesbianism is not acknowledged. The website fails to identify the vast majority of black public and historical figures who are LGBT. The Official Guide to Black History Month UK is equally remiss. Why these omissions? Black people are not one homogenous heterosexual mass. Where is the recognition of sexual diversity within the black communities and black history?

In contrast, LGBT History Month, which takes place in the UK in February, devotes a whole section of its website to the lives of leading black LGBT people and links to the websites for Black History Month. Disappointingly, this solidarity is not reciprocated. On the Black History Month websites I could not find a LGBT section or a LGBT History Month link.

Perhaps it is unintentional but Black History Month sometimes feels like Straight Black History Month. Famous black LGBT people are not acknowledged and celebrated. Either their contribution to black history and culture is ignored or their sexuality is airbrushed out of their biographies.

A good example of this neglect is the denialism surrounding the bisexuality of one of the greatest modern black liberation heroes: Malcolm X. The lack of recognition is perhaps not surprising, given that some of his family and many black activists have made strenuous efforts to deny his same-sex relationships and suppress recognition of the full spectrum of his sexuality.

Why the cover-up? So what if Malcolm X was bisexual? Does this diminish his reputation and achievements? Of course not. Whether he was gay, straight or bisexual should not matter. His stature remains, regardless of his sexual orientation. Yet many of the people who revere him seem reluctant to accept that their hero, and mine, was bisexual.

Malcolm X's bisexuality is more than just a question of truth and historical fact. There has never been any black person of similar global prominence and recognition who has been publicly known to be gay or bisexual. Young black lesbian, gay and bisexual people can, like their white counterparts, often feel isolated, guilty and insecure about their sexuality. They could benefit from positive, high-achieving role models, to give them confidence and inspiration. Who better than Malcolm X? He inspired my human rights activism and was a trailblazer in the black freedom struggle. He can inspire other LGBT people too.

Right now, there is not a single living black person who is a worldwide household name and who is also openly gay. That's why the issue of Malcolm X's sexuality is so important. Having an internationally renowned gay or bisexual black icon would do much to help challenge homophobia, especially in the black communities and particularly in Africa and the Caribbean where homosexuality and bisexuality are often dismissed as a "white man's disease".

So what is the evidence for Malcolm X's bisexual orientation? Most people remember him as the foremost US black nationalist leader of the 1960s. Despite the downsides of his anti-white rhetoric, black separatism and religious superstition, he was America's leading spokesperson for black consciousness, pride and self-help. He spoke with fierce eloquence and defiance for black upliftment and freedom.

Malcolm's complex, changing sexuality was never part of the narrative of his life until the publication of Bruce Perry's acclaimed biography, Malcolm – The Life of a Man Who Changed Black America. Perry is a great admirer and defender of Malcolm X, but not an uncritical one. He wrote the facts, based on interviews with over 420 people who knew Malcolm personally at various stages in his life, from childhood to his tragic assassination in 1965. His book is not a hatchet job, as some black critics claim, it is the exact opposite. Perry presents an honest, rounded story of Malcolm's life and achievements which, in my opinion, is far more moving and humane than the better known but somewhat hagiographic The Autobiography of Malcolm X: As Told To Alex Haley.

Based on interviews with Malcolm's closest boyhood and adult friends, Perry suggests the US black liberation leader was not as solidly heterosexual as his Nation of Islam colleagues and black nationalist acolytes have always claimed. While Perry did not make Malcolm's sexuality a big part of his biography – in fact, it is a very minor aspect – he did not shy away from writing about what he heard in his many interviews.

He documents Malcolm's many same-sex relations and his activities as a male sex worker, which spanned at least a 10-year period, from his mid-teens to his 20s, as I described in some detail in a previous article for the Guardian. Although Malcolm later married and, as far as we know, abandoned sex with men, his earlier same-sex relations suggest that he was bisexual rather than heterosexual. Abstaining from gay sex after his marriage does not change the fundamentals of his sexual orientation and does not mean that he was wholly straight.

Towards the end of his life, Malcolm's ideas were evolving in new directions. Politically, he gravitated leftwards. Faith-wise, after his trip to Mecca, he began to embrace a non-racial mainstream Islam. His mind was becoming open to new ideas and values.

Had he not been murdered in 1965, Malcolm might have eventually, like Huey Newton of the Black Panthers and the black power leader Angela Davis, embraced the lesbian and gay liberation movement as part of the struggle for human emancipation. Instead, to serve their homophobic political agenda, for over half a century the Nation of Islam and many black nationalists have suppressed knowledge of Malcolm's same-sex relations. It is now time for Black History Month to speak the truth. Malcolm X was bisexual. Get over it.

BUCLEBACK CHRONICLES

By David L Romar

Oh my god!

It has been a long time hasn't it? I mean since I actually sat down and started to write or rather continue on this saga I am calling my chronicles. Since then Crop Over has come and gone and I have only 45 percent gotten over my addiction to pork lime and BRC. You might say I was a socaholic and more power to you if you choose to believe that. I was more into what I could see and believe me there was a lot to see, sample and throw back.

But seriously y'all how was it for you? Fun? Did it live it? Sorry if it didn't.

Let's chat seriously now though. About some of the things I saw this past Crop Over. And coming what, almost two months now, I think it is most timely.

I want to introduce you to someone called Alvin. He is six foot three, plays basketball for one of the top central divisional team and I met him when BRC had their 24 hour fete at the "Base". For all of you out there who out know about the Gaydar – I bow before thee. For those of you now learning about it... You will be astounded by its power.

What is it you might ask? It is the best thing to happen to Gay/Bi person on the face of this earth. It is you way of knowing who is gay or who isn't. Something like women's intuition but better.

Gaydar though is best defined as the name might suggest is gay radar. It refers to someone's ability to assess someone else's sexual orientation as gay bisexual or straight. It usually relies on relies on usually non verbal sensory information and intuition. These include the sensitivity to social behaviours and mannerisms; for instance acknowledging flamboyant mannerism, overtly rejecting traditional gender roles, a person's occupation and grooming habits.

If you are a guy and you have this power use it. It helps you tremendously especially if you are trying to score a lovely crumpet or English muffin or a nice angus steak with ALL the trimmings. But enough of that lesson for now this is not gay 101.

Anyhow, back to Alvin. This chocolate brown marvel of a man that I saw that night was a trip. Hitting on every woman that pass and bashing every effeminate man that he saw. He cussed at every masculine woman that he saw that wouldn't give him the time of day.

But you know when there is something nagging

DOLCE & GABBANA

NYC 1.877.70.DGUSA
www.dolcegabbana.com

you all the time and you can't

I got a tongue lashing from him (not the desirous kind either) when I barely asked him to chill, relax. I heard about how I supporting nastiness, how I is more "buller" and how I gun dead nasty. Babylon bun fyah pun you – I think was the correct expression that he used.

Now in my short time writing this column, I hope that you have become a bit closer to me and who I am and what I stand for. I hope too that you will understand why I am the way I am. If you are a bit unsure – fine let me lay it out clearly – Pellucidly for those politicians and scholars who among us want to be like that. I like dick. I also like cunt. I make no excuses, qualms what so ever about it. Just that I like beef more than I like fish sorry ladies.

This Alvin character was bothering me and with his behavior all night and quite frankly I was tempted to knock that fucker into tarnation but there was this itchy feeling at the back of my mind about him. I should have followed my Mable Madea Simmons instinct. Would you believe that later that night the same Alvin was at a party I was at in St. Peter, that bugger was the bottom for the largest flaming queen I have ever seen. And would you believe they had the gall to tell me that he was sorry, he didn't know and a whole bunch uh shite?

I am telling you all this to get to a crucial point and what I will call my "lesson for today".

You might be gay or bi, living life on the down low, WHATEVER. In this community, there is one thing that we have amongst MOST of us. That is respect. Respect for others (I hope) but most of all respect for self. Too often we spend our time bashing and crying down others and also just plain being ridiculous. Who are you to judge?

That's just my five cents. Hope you all have a great weekend.

I'm out ..... or am

Too gay... The next time someone asks you, "Hey, howdja get to be a homosexual anyway?" tell them, "Homosexuals are chosen first on talent, then interview... then the swimsuit and evening gown competition pretty much gets rid of the rest of them."

Karen Williams

Music

<http://www.mtv.com/news/>

For her fans, one wait was “ova” on Tuesday when Rihanna released her new single, “Russian Roulette.” The song, an eerie ballad about a dangerous love affair, will be on Rihanna’s forthcoming album, Rated R, out on November 23. And it shows a new, darker side of the singer — a side that is dividing fans.

“It’s different. She’s always coming with something new and interesting,” Gregory told MTV News. “It’s slower than her other songs. I liked it. There was something that caught me off guard a little bit when she said, ‘Pull the trigger.’”

Most fans agreed, though, that the song has a bit of a creepy vibe to it — from her heavy breathing on the track to the gun noises at the beginning and end, the song has a violent undertone. “It sounded creepy at first, and then it started going soft and I really liked it. It’s something new,” Andrea said. “I thought it would be another ‘Disturbia.’ It was interesting.”

Another fan, Jacqueline, agreed. “I thought it was really good. It’s different from what you’re hearing a lot now. It’s a lot softer and more serious. It’s appropriate for where she’s at right now. It’s good music.”

Nicholas thinks that the song shows “a whole new side of Rihanna.” “It was darker — it was sort of creepy. I liked it a lot. She obviously went through a lot,” he said, referring to Chris Brown’s assault and its aftermath. “I think it’s about coming back and kicking ass.”

Although it received mostly positive reviews from fans, there were a few who thought that Rihanna should have released a club banger as the first single off the new album. Kayla explained, “I don’t know. It’s really, really different. It’s not her. It’s like ‘Thriller’ meets ‘Dancing Queen.’ It’s weird, but I guess it’s cool. Everything she does is really good.”

Derek said that in today’s pop world, with Lady Gaga leading the charts, he’s not sure “Russian Roulette” has what it takes to be a hit. “I didn’t think it was her best work. It wasn’t a banger like all her other songs — not as great as Lady Gaga’s new song. I think she’ll be overshadowed by her,” he said. “It’s not gonna be ‘Disturbia’ — it’s no ‘Umbrella,’ that’s for sure.”

Come And Taste...

“The Holy Scriptures” all collected under one name, “The Bible” – is the inspired Word of God, and its purpose is clearly stated in 2 Timothy Ch 3 v 16.

BUT... what really is the BIBLE?

Many refer to The Bible as:-

- The book of truth
- The book of life
- God’s love letter to mankind
- A guide to eternal life

All of which are very true. However, there was one facilitator who in his definition added beautifully to the above by stating:-

“The Bible is the true and living authoritative infallible Word of God. It is one complete work from Genesis to Revelations”.

He continued by stating the purpose of this book “The Bible” which is:-

“The ONLY true and accurate source of studying and understanding the Nature of God, the Person of Jesus Christ, the Work of The Holy Spirit, the Gift of Salvation and all other Spiritual Matters”.

NOW!! As your spirit yearns for direction, go on, purchase or borrow from a friend a copy of the Holy Scriptures, “The Bible” and feed your spirit man. For through the pages of The Bible, you will find: -

- The Mind of God
- The Condition of your Heart
- The Happiness of those who believe on and in Jesus the Christ and
- The Doom of those who reject

Also, through reading and studying The Bible: -

- You are made wise
- You are kept safe and
- You become holy

My encouragement is this: -

- Read the Scriptures (The Bible)
- Read it Frequently
- Read it Prayfully

In so doing you will enjoy rivers of pleasure and everlasting life with the Lord Jesus Christ.

Come and Taste.....

SCENE KIDS

by Shako G

<http://twitter.com/kornkidd>

There's hip hop culture, the skate scene, the car scene, the extreme sports scene, all these scenes cool in all their awesome-ness, but I have a favourite scene which is kicking major ass in the looking good department.

Lately I've stumbled upon a lot of what are now called scene bands on my space and this type of music extends from a lifestyle /sub culture called SCENE.

scene kids are fun upbeat individuals who don't seem to fit into the regular mould, they chose elaborate clothing as apposed to the standard, they wear dark eyeliner as if their lives depended on it, and they love to get pierced. this aspect of the life style ties in with the Emo life style. its all about expression.

Let's not forget what it takes to be a scene kid; you must first have some quintessential things. for one a trusty sidekick, no not like robin from batman lol, a sidekick 3 or the I phone will do, this is to capture the every moment of your life and them post them online, its also perfect for showing al your friends on My space and face book your latest hairstyle or party you've been too. But that's not all, here are some other things theses trendy individuals need to carryon this lifestyle.: eyeliner, dyed hair, piercing, tube socks, converse, skinny jeans, wallet chain, huge sunglasses, rock star attitude, my space page, face book page, go to party's, taking lots of pics and posting them online. Tattoos.

If there's one fact about scene kids it's the fact they also love to party, rave out, rock hard if you will, and they do it all in fine fashion to the sounds of the internet queen bitch JEFREE STAR or, BREATH CAROLINA, and MEDIC DROID, these are some of the new age artist that these kids listen too, a mixture of poppy rock, up beat techno and drag elements this music sounds just as complex and different as these kids look.

Personal Grooming

You can shave or wax everything down there, but you can't use the same type of wax used on backs, faces, etc as it's too harsh. You can use normal wax for your pubic bush, but not on your penis, balls or anus.

Most over the counter waxes contain things like rubbing alcohol, which will make you very sore if used on the tender bits. If you want to wax anything down there other than your pubic bush, make sure you get something that is made specially for waxing tender areas.

If you live in a big city, you will probably find a Spa or something that does "ass, back and sack" waxing.

If you have issues with razor burns when shaving your tender bits, it tells me that you probably aren't doing it properly.

You need to follow most of the same rules as regular shaving;

- Make sure the area is freshly cleaned and all cleansing stuff is washed away and clean again after shaving to remove the shaving foam/cream/gel
  - Make sure you soak the area to be shaved for at least 10 minutes. This can be done in a bath or while taking a shower.
  - Use a fresh blade, as it can/will have nicks in it from previous shaves. Nicks in the blade {s} are the most common cause for cuts.
  - Use the right type of shaving foam/cream/gel for your skin type and the area you want to shave. Using anything with alcohol, menthol, citrus extracts, etc are fine to use on most faces, but not a good choice to use on your tender bits unless you like a lot of pain. It's recommended that you use a moisturizing based shaving gel or cream to do the tender bits, as these have extra oils in them that helps the razor glide across the area.
  -
- Post shaving needs a bit of attention too;
- Apply some cool water {not the cologne} to the area to close the pores. This helps for many reasons, including pimples, infection and what not.
  - Dry the area completely before getting dressed.
  - Talc/baby powder is good to use. Just make sure you wash and change it every day. Talc also helps prevent the itchiness when the hair grows back in. Most experts don't recommend corn/maize/maise starch based "talc" because it's too fine and can clog the pores. So use the real stuff made from rock and be a real man.
  - If you use talc, do not use after shave moisturizers as well. All it does is gum up the area and cause problems. Use one or the other, never both.
  - Wear clothing, especially underwear, that breathes. DO NOT wear nylon or polyester man panties as they do not breath.
  - Avoid pools, hot tubs and other areas for a day or so that have high chlorine levels as this can cause irritation.

MISSION STATEMENT

To educate, care and support our brothers and sisters, coming together as one to make a difference.

At United Gays & Lesbians Against AIDS Barbados (UGLAAB), we believe that we must all join the fight to stop HIV/AIDS through dispelling myths and misconceptions about the disease and giving others the hard facts about the healthy choices they can make in life.

Thus, our aim is to promote love, tolerance and understanding in an effort to bridge the knowledge gap on health and HIV related issues, and to address some of the issues faced by those in the gay community.

HISTORY OF UGLAAB

UGLAAB was first started in March 2001 to address the growing realization of an early sexual debut of the nation's youth. The organization got involved in providing various services to the young people in the community.

EDUCATE: Our community's men and women about LIFE, LOVE, RESPECT and SAFER SEX practices.

PROVIDE: A "Safe Space" for all persons who wish to learn more about lifestyles and sexuality without any form of bias.

SUPPORT: Our members and all others where necessary to help them live more productive lives.

PROMOTE: The belief that all men are created equal, and as such you should be treated that way.

In addition, UGLAAB provides Peer Education, Voluntary Counseling & Testing services and Bereavement Counseling for the community at large.

Today, UGLAAB is involved in providing many community-outreach services and the organization has partnered with a number of other NGOs on various projects. One such project is the DFID Private Sector Project — Accelerating the Private Sector Response to HIV/AIDS in the Caribbean.

ACCELERATING THE PRIVATE SECTOR RESPONSE TO HIV/AIDS IN THE CARIBBEAN

The DFID project provides UGLAAB with the opportunity to extend our services to the tourism sector. UGLAAB is committed to this project and will:

1. Conduct educational presentations on request basis for tourism enterprises.
2. Conduct outreach to the formal and informal tourism sector to promote healthy lifestyle choices including safer sexual practices.
3. Work with project partners to provide counseling support to employees of the tourism sector.
4. Work with project partners to address HIV related stigma and discrimination in the workplace through tailored presentations for employees.

UGLAAB - Caring for our brothers and sisters in the community.

Image